

Cody's Theme

We dreamed our dreams and shared our laughter,
Then you went after clouds while I stayed behind.
Where were you going? What did you find?
Now there's no knowing, but my mind
Saw winds beside you and storms ahead.
The love between us spoke the words left unsaid.

Why all this sorrow laden in me?
My eyes look inward and I see...
You're all alone with wingtips flying,
The silence biding in the air;
When all at once as clouds pass by you,
The peace inside you tells you someone is there.

Don't think tonight of tomorrow;
Steeply your path starts its climb.
Don't think tonight of tomorrow;
There's no time.

You're free at last, no now, no past
To tell you where to roam.
But someone beside you will comfort and guide you.
Someone will lead you to your home.

Note: This song was written for my, brother:
Cody Allen Balisteri, born March 20, 1941,
Died September 26, 1990, in a fire aboard the USS Oriskany.